Mapping

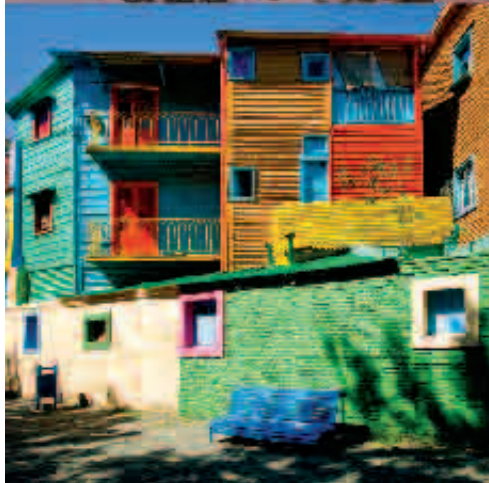

ON THE STREET. Permanent, large scale exterior multimedia environments including building facades, public spaces, urban entertainments and theme parks. Light, technology and imagination combine to generate crowd-pleasing urbane experiences. This notion of “place-making” or inventing new spaces and formats in the city offers limitless opportunities for expression to mass audience.

BETWEEN WALLS. Permanent interior multimedia environments, such as hotels, spas, retail spaces, museums, bars, restaurants. Video, sound, special effects and interactive systems can be harnessed to create immersive experiences. The effect is the transformation of the public space into an environment that is designed to mold message and mood and to provoke and entertain.

IN TRAFFIC. Temporary experiential installations mostly oriented towards positioning or corporate communications purposes, including tradeshows, pavilions, fairs, street experiences and promotions. Smaller in scale and reserved to limited audience, these are controlled, immersive, environments that convey the tactical message to the targeted audience. By mobilizing interactive technologies, the objective is to provoke interactive emotional responses to demonstrate the values of a specific brand by unconventional means.

SPECIAL EVENTS & SHOWS. Bleeding-edge performance support for events and shows as meetings, private events, product launches, galas and rock concerts. Ephemeral in nature, these one-of-the-kind spectacles are staged to dazzler, and provie the forum for avant-garde experiences. An experimental approach generates the rare cultural moment that will inspire wonder long after the show ends.
